Eternal Flame

Two local luminaries shed some light on an age-old art

It's not often you hear of candle makers looking to Grace Kelly, Chanel nail lacquer and Rodarte sketches for inspiration, but for graphic and textile designer Wendy Polish and makeup artist Jo Strettell, founders of L.A. line Le Feu de L'eau (The Fire of The Water), storyboards are key. As creative types, "This process of gathering information is very important to us," says Strettell. Their freeform candles are sculpted underwater and come in six blends such as Musk | Smoke or Black & Red Currant. $55; Lost & Found, L.A.; lefeudeleau.com.

BRIGHT LIGHTS

British nail care brand Ciaté hits the Golden State this season in an array of electric hues, from Cupcake Queen (a delicious fuchsia) to Mistress (a glam red).

Kristie Streicher. BELOW Aforé, $45, streicher beautybar.com.

Oil Slick

Long before brow master Kristie Streicher launched her L.A. beauty bar, she concocted her own blend of virgin organic Moroccan argan and aloe vera oil to soothe skin and soften hair pre-tweezing. At the demand of clients, Aforé is available starting this month.

LOS ANGELES

PRIMED FOR PRIMPING Brooklyn salon and apothecary Woodley & Bunny has landed on the west coast to bring a perfectly curated selection of global goodies in addition to salon services such as haircuts, brow shaping and power facials. 8318 ½ W. 3rd St., L.A., 323-951-9906; woodleyandbunny.com.

SANTA MONICA

SPADE IN THE SAND

Memorial Day just got chicer with a new limited-edition Kate Spade and Shutters on the Beach meet-up. The Bon Shopper collaboration, a graphic tote made of Florence Broadhurst-print cotton, is the ideal size for seaside essentials. What's more, for après-sun, One spa at the resort now offers an array of treatments using N.Y.-based cult-hit Red Flower and products by Omorovicza. shuttersbeachstyle.com.

The Bon Shopper Solar print, $198.
